Sensational Story About Seeing Money Given To Bribe Democrats In The Stephen- son Campaign Rings False.

PRIVATE DETECTIVE WAS WITNESS

Unable To Describe Men He Saw Given The Coin, And The Men Mentioned In His Story All Deny The Tale In Toto.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., May 6.—The anti-Stephenson investigating committee of the state senate is giving consideration to the question of the sanity of Frank T. Wagner, alleged private detective, who told a sensational story yesterday about an alleged bribing incident in a room of the Plankinton hotel in Milwaukee.

The fellow had been talking considerably in Milwaukee and his tales reached the senate committee, resulting in his being subpoenaed as a witness.

Wagner told a fairly consistent story on direct examination, but when cross examined by Attorney W. L. Black, representing Senator Stephenson, the fellow fell down miserably, particularly when called upon to give descriptions of the men whom he said figured in the money-taking incident.

Telephone messages from the Plankinton hotel in Milwaukee bring information to the effect that there are no transoms between rooms in that hotel, that is, no glass transoms are in any of the rooms. Two years ago they were boarded up by order of the Milwaukee inspector of buildings.

Wagner said he saw the bribing through a transom. He described Assemblyman Tom Ramsey as a dark man weighing 170 pounds, having a dark mustache, but everybody at Madison is familiar with the distinctive appearance of Tom Ramsey. He has a great protruding stomach, is short and corpulent, has shining bald head, no mustache whatever, and always wears glasses. Wagner said Ramsey wore no glasses.

Frank T. Wagner, styling himself as a "private secret service man," testified that he saw $25,000 in currency divided into three portions and distributed to Assemblymen Thomas Ramsey, Elias A. Towne, and John T. Farrell, the three democratic assemblymen who remained out of the joint convention of the senate and assembly on March 4 and thereby brought about the election of Isaac Stephenson as United States senator.

Wagner said he was in a room in the Plankinton hotel in Milwaukee (room 153) and that his attention was attracted to a valet which seemed familiar coming from the next room, 152. He said he stopped up on furniture until he could see through the transom into the next room, where he saw four men.

One he claims to have recognized as Assemblyman Ramsey, another he recognized as Assemblyman Farrell, a third he recognized as Matthew J. Regan, a prominent democratic politician and Milwaukee real estate dealer, and the fourth he did not recognize but heard the others refer to him as Towne.

The four were talking and Wagner testified that he heard them mention $25,000. "Regan," said Wagner, went out leaving the three assemblymen in the room. Regan returned in about ten minutes, and a little later J. H. Puellicher entered the room. He is cashier of the Marshall-Field bank and political manager of Senator Stephenson two years ago, also co-treasurer of the part of the senator's campaign fund in the campaign last summer.

Wagner testified that Puellicher took from one pocket a package of the shape of a bundle of currency, from another pocket Puellicher took a fat bundle of currency, with a hand around it, such a package as banks make in doing up bills of large denomination.

Regan took the two packages and Puellicher departed, after putting Regan on the back and smiling. Then Regan proceeded to count and divide the currency into three parts, one of which he handed to each of the assemblymen present, said Wagner.

Wagner went into many details, even drawing a faithful plan of the rooms and hallways of the hotel. He said he was in the hotel on detective business for a Chicago firm, which he did not name in his testimony. His observation of the alleged bribing incident was purely accidental, he declared.

After Wagner had gone over his story in response to questions by the members of the probe committee, Senators Husting and Marsh, Wagner was thoroughly cross-examined by Attorney Black, who has represented Senator Stephenson in the investigation.

While this cross-examination was in progress, Assemblyman Farrell came rushing into the committee room, elbowed his way through the crowd, rushed close to Wagner who was sitting in the witness chair, and shouted: "Don't prepare yourself like that; you never saw me in the Plankinton hotel."

Farrell was restrained by the committee and became peaceful only upon being threatened with ejection unless he would be quiet. However, he remained standing close to Wagner while the cross-examination proceeded.

FAILURE TO PASS SUITABLE TARIFF BILL SPELLS WAR

According to Senator Cummins of Iowa—Says Steel Corporation Needs No Protection.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, D. C., May 6.—Senator Cummins of Iowa in a notable speech in the senate today predicted that the failure to pass a tariff bill providing for lower duties on imports would provoke a political contest for another revision of the tariff. Speaking of the iron and steel industry, Cummins said, "The United States steel corporation needs no protection. They would be amply cared for if the proposed duties were withheld from them." He declared that when the iron and steel paragraphs were reached he would propose an amendment reducing the duties below those shown in the report of the finance committee, substantially 33 1/2 %.

BIG RECEPTION FOR THE OHIO AVIATORS

Citizens of Dayton Will Receive Wright Brothers With Open Arms On Their Return Home.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Dayton, O., May 6.—Under the direction of a citizens' committee plans are proceeding apace for the public welcome to be given the Wright brothers, the famous Dayton aviators, who are now on their way home from Europe. The brothers, who were in New York yesterday and are expected to reach this city in about ten days. The day of their arrival will be a gala one for Dayton. The mayor is expected to proclaim a public holiday for the occasion and the city will be elaborately decorated. Public men and others of prominence in all parts of the country are to be invited to take part in the demonstration.

According to advices received by Lorin Wright it is the intention of the brothers to come at once to Dayton upon their arrival in New York. They will remain here about a month to superintend the completion of the airplane that is to be used in the trials at Fort Myer in June. They will also take steps to provide facilities here for the manufacture of the machine on a large scale, inquiries and orders for a large number having already been received.

THREE-LEAGUE BEGAN PLAYING GAMES TODAY

Clubs Will Play 140 Games, Last Coming Sept. 25—Ohio and Pennsylvania League Opened Today.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Springfield, Ill., May 6.—The Three-League baseball season opened today with the champion home team pitted against Decatur, Dubuque at Davenport, Rock Island at Cedar Rapids, and Peoria at Bloomington. The club owners believe the season will be a record-breaker from all points of view. Since the close of last season the weak clubs of the league have been strengthened and the present season begins with all signs pointing to a close and interesting race for the championship. The schedule provides for a season of 140 games. The final games will be played Sept. 25.

CHARGES M'VEAGH WITH POISONING THE NATION

Speaker Bancroft Makes Sensational Plea For Pure Foods At Madison--Anti-Sunday Barbering Bill To Pass.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., May 6.—The Morris anti-Sunday barbering bill was recommended for passage in the assembly today, as was also the bill to prohibit the adulteration of beer, wine and whiskey. After a sensational speech by Speaker Bancroft, the assembly, by unanimous vote, advanced the bill fixing the standard of food products in Wisconsin. Bancroft charged Franklin McVeagh, secretary of the treasury in Taft's cabinet, with poisoning his fellow men for money, the speaker exhibiting a bottle of lemon extract alleged to have been made and sold by the McVeagh company, containing not a drop of lemon and consisting almost entirely of wood-alcohol, a powerful poison. A raspberry jam was exhibited, made of glucose and honeyed. A bottle of port wine with not a drop of port wine in it, made of glucose, coal tar and benzoate of soda was also exhibited. This was labeled "Guaranteed under pure food and drug act."

PHILANDER C. KNOX FIFTY-SIX TODAY

Popular Secretary Of State Celebrated Day Quite Unostentatiously By Working.

Washington, D. C., May 6.—Philander C. Knox, Secretary of State, was reminded of his birthday when he arrived at his office this morning and found a great bunch of roses on his desk. During the day he was kept busy receiving congratulations from his colleagues of the cabinet, the subordinate officials of the Department of State, the members of the diplomatic corps who chanced to call, and Senators, Representatives and scores of other public officials among whom the Secretary of State is deservedly popular.

Although he has now reached his fifty-sixth year, Secretary Knox looks scarcely a day older than he did when he made his first appearance in Washington in 1891 to take up his duties as Attorney General in the cabinet of President McKinley. He was then comparatively unknown, except in the legal profession, outside of Western Pennsylvania. Today he is one of the best known men in the United States, and in ability is regarded generally as measuring up to the very high standard set by James G. Blaine, John Sherman, John May, Elihu Root and others who have held the portfolio of State in recent years.

The Secretary of State is a tireless worker, though no man enjoys the pleasures of life more than he. It is no uncommon thing for him to appear at his office before any of his subordinates in the morning. It is his habit to examine personally every important document, letter or reference that concerns the affairs of his department. This has developed a rare faculty of self-control which enables him to awaken at any hour and at the end of any period of time which he may have determined. He can take a half-hour nap and awaken himself on the minute. In Washington the early rising habit is a feature of his daily life. He is usually up at 6 o'clock and breakfasts with his family at 8. Then comes a romp with his little grandson, who is the apple of his eye, followed by an hour's drive if the weather is pleasant.

Outdoor life is Secretary Knox's hobby. No man in Washington is fonder of fast horses. His loves to hunt and fish and play golf, and he is to be seen frequently on the links with President Taft.

Mr. Knox has never cared much for society but since taking up his residence in Washington he has bowed to the social demands of his position. Mrs. Knox, on the other hand, is extremely fond of society and is regarded as one of the social leaders of the cabinet circle. Their home life is simple, despite the splendor of the stone mansion in which they live. Mr. Knox spends the most of his time when at home in the library, which is said to be one of the finest private collections in Washington.

Both the Secretary and Mrs. Knox are members of the Protestant Episcopal church and active in philanthropic and charitable work. The Secretary of State is a man of generous impulses, but he never permits any record of his benefactions to become public. A characteristic incident is related by a prominent and wealthy woman who called on him in behalf of a charity organization immediately after the great blizzard of 1898 in Western Pennsylvania.

She solicited a contribution for coal and food, and the response was a check for a very considerable sum, so large, in fact, that it led the startled woman to inquire:

"How do you wish this money applied, Mr. Knox?"

"As your organization thinks best. There are worthy and unworthy poor, I know, but they are all cold and hungry," was the answer.

BOYLE'S ATTORNEYS MAKE NO DEFENSE; GUILTY, SAYS JURY

Verdict Matter of Few Minutes—"Billy" Whittan on Stand Identifies Kidnaper Positively.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Mercer, Pa., May 6.—"Billy" Whittan on the witness stand today in the trial of James H. Boyle, his alleged abductor, today pointed a finger at the defendant and said with a positiveness that could not be doubted, "That is the man." He had been asked if he could point out the man who took him away from Sharon last March. In his boyish way "Billy" told the story of his abduction. The crowds were so large at the trial that the doors had to be locked.

After being out fifteen minutes the jury returned a verdict of "guilty." The verdict was returned but a few minutes after announcement had been made by the counsel for Boyle, immediately upon the convening of the court after the recess, that he would offer no defense.

So lightly were the coils of testimony wound around the defendant by the prosecution that the lawyers representing Boyle decided it was useless to offer any evidence in his behalf.

The prosecution's witnesses accounted for almost every movement of Boyle from the evening before the abduction up until the time of his arrest in Cleveland.

It is the intention to take up the case of Mrs. Boyle at once.

TICKET RATES CASE BEFORE COMMISSION

Pennsylvania Railroad Gave Rates To Some and Not To Others—Will Decide On Proper Charge.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., May 6.—Sale of railroad tickets to school children was the topic for a general hearing of testimony and arguments held by the Interstate Commerce Commission today. Some months ago the commission, in a case brought before it by the Pennsylvania railroad, decided that it was improper for railroads to restrict the use of commutation tickets sold at a reduced rate to children attending certain schools, denying the same rate to others. The railroad companies thereupon withdrew the sale of such tickets from all children and referred to the decision of the commission as the reason for so doing. This caused much dissatisfaction. The commission issued a special statement in regard to the matter, intimating that the railroads had purposely misconstrued the decision. The hearing today was held with a view to determining what is fair to both the railroad companies and the children.

Generally.

Every little while the public gets greatly excited over the discovery of a poem by some dead poet who did not consider the thing worth being included in his collected works. Generally we find, in spite of the public's hurrah over the discovery, that the dead poet excelled pretty good judgment.

Boston's Magic Bean Bakers.
It seems that in baking beans Boston turns 16,000,000 quarts into 32,000,000 quarts, and the finished product is still admirably filling. The genius that can make two quarts of beans materialize where there was but one quart has mastered a great point in dietary science and political economy.

KOSSESKI SENT TO REFORMATORY

Youthful "Dip" From Chicago Pleaded Guilty to Charge of Stealing $58 Worth of Jewelry.
On his plea of "guilty" to the charge of stealing a watch and rings valued at $58 from Augustus Becker, a dining-room girl, at the Railroad hotel last Thursday, sixteen year old Carl Kosseski, who once lived at 64 Duane street on the northwest side, Chicago, was this morning committed to the Green Day reformatory for the period of one year. A continuance was taken in the case of his pal, James Hennings, who also pleaded guilty to the charge of receiving stolen property, pending the arrival of answers to certain inquiries concerning him which have been sent to the address he gave as that of his sister and also to the J. T. & Co. shoe factory in the metropolis where he claims to have been employed for four years.

Much Sympathy for Boy
Attorney Edward Peterson was appointed by the court to represent the two youths and appeared as their counsel. When questioned by the Judge young Kosseski told the same story about stealing the $58 from the hotel safe several days prior to the jewelry theft; returning with it to Chicago; and being compelled to come back here again, under threats of taking his life, by Hennings, and a youth named Stanley. He was accused to show his face here again after taking the money, he said, but they made him do it. After he had served his time he declared that he was going to be honest and earn and pay back the money stolen from Mr. Carpenter. Though the little fellow is perhaps a hopeless criminal, there is a fascination about the shrewd little face and his naive manner of expressing himself that has won for him the sympathy of all the officers.

SOCIETY WEDDING IN CITY OF MONROE

Miss Frances Staver United in Marriage to C. W. Twining, President of Bank.

(Special to the Gazette.)
Monroe, Wis., May 6.—Miss Frances M. Staver, a young lady of social prominence here, and Mr. C. W. Twining, president of the Commercial and Savings bank, were married at 7:30 o'clock this morning at the residence of Mrs. F. J. Pike, 310 East street, the bride's home. Rev. Alfred Schulz, of St. John's church, officiated. Only the relatives and a few of the intimate friends were in attendance. Following a wedding breakfast the bride and groom left with Mr. and Mrs. George L. Pullen by auto for Evansville and there they will take the train for Lake Mills, where they will spend a few weeks at the "Home on the Hill," their summer home. The bride is a daughter of the late Henry C. Staver, of Chicago. Mrs. Staver and son, Harry Staver, Miss Elizabeth Maltman, of Chicago; N. C. Twining, of Mendota, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. George L. Pullen, of Evansville, were here for the wedding.

Gov. F. W. Hook, of Kansas, will deliver a lecture here on Thursday evening, May 13, as the closing number of the Citizens' lecture course.

Supt. Eugene Daily, Traveling Freight Agent M. J. Hubert, Traveling Passenger Agent M. J. Hubert, Anderson, Ill. Agent Walter Kirk, Illinois Central officials, were in the city yesterday.

Coffins Made of Paper.
Some undertakers, whose customers are poor people, are using coffins made of paper. The coffins are made in all styles of pressed paper pulp, just the same as the common paper buckets. When they are varnished and stained they resemble polished wood, and in point of durability it is claimed they are much better than wooden ones.

Men and Women.
When a man is left with a lot of motherless children on his hands, he usually scatters them among his relatives. If it is the woman who is left with fatherless little ones, she keeps them together and owns a living besides. Women develop great energy when left without a man. In fact, all the widows we know are getting along a great deal better than the married women.—Atchison Globe.

Keeps Automatic Record.
An instrument is being used in one of the South African mines which automatically keeps a record of the cargo or skip journeys as well as the signals given in the shaft and in the engine-room. A band of paper ruled off into time spaces is marked by a small disc provided with a needle at one side. While the skip or cage is in motion, the disc travels over the cylinder making its record. When the signal bell is sounded the needle is caused to perforate the paper once for each ring of the bell.

Keep the Business in Janesville

Asking for an opportunity to save money, to give you better treatment than you have ever had, and to give quality better than you have been in the habit of getting, ought to be met with pretty prompt response, hadn't it?

And yet that is exactly what we are doing in this campaign of ours. We want to let you know, that when we figure a bill of lumber we compete with every kind of competition. We bid low on all bills because our aim is to make small profits and depend upon greater volume of business.

This must be the logical way of getting business, for unless our prices are lowest, based on equal quality of goods, we cannot expect the business.

But there are other things to be taken into account, though price is first consideration, and they are service, credit, quality, promptness and many little courtesies.

The knowledge that you can depend upon your goods being exactly as represented, can in fact see them before you buy; that you can call for more, or return some unused pieces; that your every want is going to be satisfied as soon as it is known; that you do not have to pay before getting your materials; that it is going to be delivered to you when and where you want it—in short, the knowledge that you are going to be treated as you would expect to treat us if the conditions were reversed, is worth more to you sometimes than just a slight difference in the first cost of the goods.

Keep these things in mind when you buy your next order of building materials, and give us an opportunity to make an estimate of its cost, and see if we cannot save you money.

respect for her, so why should you be thinking or speaking about the scene now?"

The young man's teeth ground together, and his right hand groped outward in search of the older man's throat.

"You dare assert such a thing. I'll murder you."

"It is written somewhere that actions speak louder than words." The calm voice that came out of the dark corner of the cab fell upon the young man's ear with peculiar effect. His hand fell to his knee, and he settled back into his seat, thinking as clearly as his condition would allow. And both men were silent now until the cab stopped. The door was jerked open, and Cagle made the way for the young man to get out. A hall light gleamed down from the top of a flight of steps that led up from the street.

"You're all right, I believe," declared the youth, reaching for Cagle's hand. "When can I see you again?"

"At the Gilded Ball tomorrow night."

The boy made his way up the steps and began trying to insert a key in the night latch. But before he had succeeded the door was drawn open from the inside, and for a few seconds Cagle was permitted to gaze upon the face of a beautiful woman, but it was a middle-aged and saddened face. The door closed, and the name plate was but dimly discernible—"Mrs. Margaret Brewster."

Cagle was waiting at the entrance to the Gilded Ball and scanning the faces of those who entered. When Brewster arrived, Cagle greeted him quietly; then he led the way inside. After some intricate windings the two men seated themselves at a table, among a number of others in a brilliantly lighted room. At a table not far away were seated two men and a woman, all in evening dress, and the woman was strikingly handsome. They were drinking champagne and playing poker.

Cagle leaned forward and spoke to Brewster in a low tone.

"Will you drink tonight?" he asked.

"I think not."

"May?"

"No."

"Suppose she were your sister or mother?"

"Do you want me to murder you?" Brewster's hand clinched fiercely.

"She is some one's daughter, and one of her companions is some one's son," Cagle's tone was quiet.

"Ugh!" exclaimed Brewster, turning from the scene.

But a gleam of satisfaction shot from the older man's eyes.

"Let's go somewhere decent," suggested Brewster, arising. "I'm nervous from last night's experience. And, say, you run me the wrong way, somehow. I like you. There is something about you, but I can't explain it. Come on."

Cagle followed, and they entered a cab in the street. The drive was a long one. Cagle had given directions, and when the men alighted they were standing before an obscure entrance to a cemetery.

"I want to show you a strange inscription," Cagle drew a key from his pocket and turned toward a narrow gate in the wall. Brewster hesitated a moment.

"This is a peculiar hour at which to come here," he said.

"I hope you do not fear me?"

"Not in the least."

Cagle opened the gate, and the two made their way among the intricate windings of the walkways to a tomb covered by a plain slab.

Here Cagle struck a match, for the moonlight was not sufficient, and Brewster read:

"The body that lies here was the habitation of a great soul. It held a brain capable of stupendous employments. But it yielded to vicious appetites. What should have been kept as a sanctum became the receptacle of alcohol. The brain that might have planned empires fell to the service of the gambler, and the hand that might have built nobly, an assassin, liberated this soul."

The match had burned out, and the dim shadows of surrounding foliage fell back to their places on the tomb. Brewster gazed for a moment upon the slab now spotted with the shade of ivy leaves, then turned away.

"He was a good boy," fell from the lips of Cagle in a meditative tone, following the younger man toward the gate.

"Where will you alight?"

"The return drive had been made in silence, and Brewster had held his hand upon his companion's shoulder. "I am going home," he added.

"The cab had stopped where the light of the Gilded Ball fell into the street. "Won't you come in and have something?" asked the older man as he got out.

"Not tonight," And Brewster shrugged his shoulders.

Like an ogre nursing a victim for sacrifice, Cagle kept watch for Brewster and took him in tow on every occasion. He steered him past every temptation by bringing to his view objects of lessons in the results of vice and dissipation.

One day he insisted that Brewster should visit Ward's Island with him to see a friend. They entered a ward in the asylum there where wrecks of alcohol found safe keeping.

"Your friend has been going through one of his tantrums," remarked an attendant as he led the way to a padded cell.

In a few moments Brewster was gazing upon a thing that once had been the perfect form of a human being and the tenement of an intelligent soul.

"You say he was a friend of yours?"

"They had turned away from the door, and Cagle answered:

"Yes, a friend and a man of fine qualifications, but an idler."

Brewster stooped to pick up a slip of paper at his feet.

"What is this?" he asked.

"Some of that patient's writings," volunteered the attendant.

Brewster read, "An idler is an enemy to himself and a menace to society."

He stopped and reread the words thoughtfully. "It is the truth," he murmured under his breath.

But Cagle caught the words, and a smile of satisfaction slipped from the tail of his eye.

Beyond the gates Cagle turned abruptly to his companion.

"Brewster, what are you doing these days in the way of employment for your time?"

"Nothing, absolutely nothing, and that is what has started me on the road to ruin."

"A friend of mine is in pressing need of a secretary, and I think you would said him. The salary would be worth your while if you're not above."

"I loved him, son!"

"Hang the salary; it's the work I need. You have come into my life at a most opportune time for me, somehow, and brought me around to my senses. At any rate, my mother has begun to look happy again, and you're the cause of it, though I don't quite know how you have done it."

Cagle had turned away his head, and a look that mingled pleasure and pain passed over his features.

Within a few months after Brewster had entered upon his duties he was recognized as a coming business man of the highest qualifications. Cagle had dropped back into the old ruts, a game here and a game there for the sake of the sport, philosophizing quietly and watching with half-hearted interest the procession of humanity. Occasionally he would pass the house where Brewster lived and glance at the name on the doorplate. Occasionally Brewster thought of Cagle, and he recognized the tremendous service the latter had done him. And it was not strange that he should think of Cagle as he lay one day on his back at a hospital a crushed and bleeding form, the result of a trolley accident.

He sent for Cagle, but no one could find a man of that name. The directory did not give it. No one among the haunts that Brewster named knew it. He then described the man minutely, and a messenger was sent out. A man answering the description was found, and the messenger approached him.

"Are you Dent Cagle?" was asked.

"Why do you ask?"

"A man named Brewster, who is seriously hurt."

"You may call me Cagle. Where is the boy?"

"I will take you to him."

As Cagle entered the ward where Brewster lay he paused at sight of a woman who sat beside the cot. Deeply concerned, her eyes were watching the face of her son. But the patient had caught sight of the visitor, and he murmured eagerly:

"Cagle?"

Margaret Brewster arose quickly and turned to meet the man who had done so much for her son. Then, suddenly, she bowed her head and held out her hand gently toward the visitor.

"Not Cagle," she said, "but Hugh—Hugh Morrison."

Cagle, or Morrison, took the hand that was offered him and covered it gently with his free hand, too full for utterance with the emotion of an old love that still burned in his heart.

"You saved me from a pretty bad life, Cagle," began Brewster from the cot, "and I just wanted to thank you for it—What? Why, you two seem to know each other. How is this?"

Allowing Morrison to keep his hold of her hand, she leaned forward and whispered:

"I loved him, son, before I met your father."

A gleam of satisfaction shot from the boy's eyes, preceeding an expression of agony which came as he sought to turn himself.

Morrison placed his hand upon the young man's forehead and said:

"The first time I saw you, boy, I recognized that strong resemblance to your mother, and the wonderful rim of the old love leaped into flame again."

Remedy for Hoarseness.

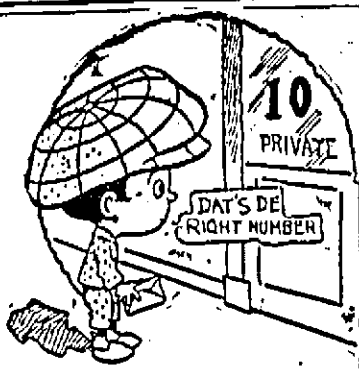

A simple remedy for hoarseness and an irritating tickling in the throat consists of making a gargle of an egg beaten to a froth and adding half a glass of warm, sweetened water. Drink this every little while, rather than all at once, as most men drink all liquids.

Make the Most of Everything.

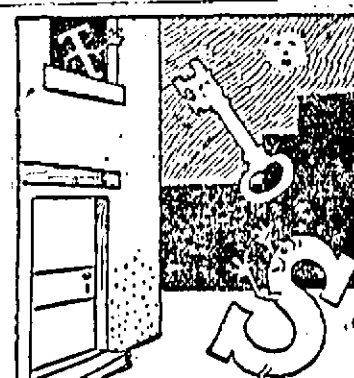

A man who knows the world will not only make the most of everything he does know, but of many things he does not know; and will gain more credit by his adroit mode of hiding ignorance than the pedant by his awkward attempt to exhibit his erudition.

OUR MARVEL FLOUR DEMONSTRATION

At 109 West Milwaukee St., Every Afternoon and Saturday Evening This Week

Natural Food Products

UNBLEACHED MARVEL FLOUR

Always the best. Nature, in its infinite kindness to mankind, gives us wheat with all its purity, nourishing and health giving strength. Flour made in the good old fashioned, natural way, unbleached, retains all the nourishing and health-giving qualities of wheat. Bleached Flour, the kind now practically in universal use, is not a natural product: it is artificially Whitened and contains peroxide of nitrogen, and the U. S. Govt. Pure Food Commission has ruled:—"The bleaching of Flour is a violation of the Pure Food Law of 1906, and instructed the Flour Mills they will have to discontinue its manufacture and sale." MARVEL FLOUR in unbleached. It is pure, wholesome and economical. It has been on the market for years and thousands of Doctors and Pure Food Experts recommend its use. It makes more and better bread, at less cost, than bleached flour, and is the only flour for your daily use. For sale by all Grocers. If you buy your bread, insist on its being made of MARVEL Unbleached Flour.

Listman Mill Company,

La Crosse, Wis.

We stand alone—"The only large Flour Mill in the U. S. which never made a bleached flour."

Our demonstrator, MRS. HENSEL, will daily, from 1:30 o'clock to five o'clock p. m., and Saturday night, beginning Tuesday, May 4th, 1909, exhibit MARVEL dainties and be pleased to answer questions relative to the possibilities of MARVEL Flour.

Light refreshments will be served between talks on the goods things Marvel Flour will make. Program for Friday afternoon, May 7th: Marvel Bread Sandwiches Salad and Demonstration Icings for cakes; cookies served with tea, coffee or cocoa. Come and bring a pencil and paper and take down the splendid recipes Mrs. Hensel will give free.

Come in the afternoon from 1:30 to five any day this week, or Saturday evening, and bring your friends. We want you to know more about MARVEL FLOUR, what it will do, and are taking this way of exhibiting dainties made from MARVEL FLOUR, believing it to be far superior to any flour you can buy.

We hope, by showing you bread, cake and pastry made from MARVEL Flour to convert you into becoming an enthusiastic MARVEL Flour customer. If you already are a user of MARVEL Flour, our demonstrator may suggest new possibilities to you. If you are not a MARVEL Flour customer, we hope you will become such.

This demonstration and entertainment is entirely FREE.

"And now," he declared, "I am going to take you home. What street did you say?"

"423 G—avenue, but I hadn't said before, had I?"

Cagle smiled covertly, but did not reply. Lending the way, he was followed closely by the middle-aged youth. A cab was found, and this was soon winding its way toward the home of the boy. Cagle was leaning back in a corner lost in thought, and the youth was staring toward his face through the darkness. Presently he began to mutter, half aloud:

"She'll be waiting up for me, and she always cries when I go home like this."

"She?" The older man had leaned forward now.

"My mother, you know. She's a regular fool about me."

It took the twentieth century to give us the air ships. It took men who were willing to spend some money and risk in the perfecting of the flying machines.

And the same is true in Dentistry. If all dentists were to follow the same ideas of our grandfathers there would be no advancement.

I am using in my dental office all 20th century equipment which permits of better and faster work and I do all work without pain.

And prices, too, are different from elsewhere. I'm in a position to save you one-third to one-half on the bill.

25 Coming for Special Car
Five Cent Fare to Summer
Playground After 6 P. M.

Twenty-five officials of the Rockford & Interurban road will arrive here this evening on a special car and take supper at the Hotel Myers. One of the subjects discussed at this gathering will be the projected new amusement park which the company expects to establish between Deloit and Janesville. Negotiations for the lease of Young's park for a period of ten years have fallen through but there are several available sites between that place and Janesville which can easily be converted into an attractive summer playground. A dance pavilion will be erected; a base ball diamond laid out and a grandstand and bleachers built; edible refreshment pavilions and "figure-eight" and other amusement devices installed; and large and small boats placed on the river. The management expects to conduct a first-class place which will be kept clear of undesirable people. No intoxicating liquors will be sold on the grounds. Arrangements will also be made for a five-cent fare either from Janesville or Deloit after 6 p. m. It is expected that it will take a large part of the present summer to fully carry out the plan but the dancing pavilion and some of the features may be installed at once. The park enterprise will have an independent organization and the ownership of stock will not be confined to those interested in the Interurban road.

Mrs. Frank H. Blodgett was elected president of the Twentieth Century History class at the annual meeting held at the home of Mrs. John G. Rexford yesterday. The other officers named were: Vice President, Mrs. Samuel Smith; Secretary, Mrs. Frank Farnsworth; Class Historian, Mrs. Edwin Spaulding. Mrs. J. W. Laughlin gave a talk on Japanese folklore, relating some of her own interesting experiences in the flower kingdom. After an informal discussion the class decided to devote its study during the coming year to current events. Refreshments were served by the hostess and the meeting proved a very enjoyable one for all those present.

CHILDREN TO VOTE ON STATE FLOWER

Balloting Will Form Part of the Arbor Day Exercises at Schools of the City Tomorrow.

Tomorrow the school children in all of the city schools will celebrate Arbor Day with appropriate exercises. In each of the grades the children have been memorizing "pieces" to be delivered on this occasion.

Whether the exercises there will also be the voting for the state flower of Wisconsin. Last year a vote was taken to choose four flowers, from which the state flower should be picked. The flowers to be voted on are violet, wild rose, trailing arbutus, and white water lily.

Schools in various schools have been holding debates on the subject of the state flower. A boys' team taking two of the flowers and discussing them, with the girls acting as judges, and the girls have done likewise. The winners of the boys' and girls' teams have then met and the pupils decided which is the winner. Over two thousand scholars will vote tomorrow.

At the high school the morning exercises tomorrow will be in charge of the Girls' Philanthropic society.

There will be no sessions in the afternoon, the time being devoted to excursions in the woods, climbing up about the homes and planting trees and seeds.

OBITUARY.

Robert Louis Short.

At Fosteria, Ohio, April 2, Robert Louis Short died of tuberculosis. The deceased was a son of the late C. G. Short and a brother of Mrs. Thomas Short.

Patrick Welch.

This morning at nine o'clock from St. Mary's church, the funeral services of Patrick Welch were held. Fr. Wm. A. Gmelin officiating. Many of the friends of the deceased from Milwaukee were present and a number of others from this vicinity attended the services. The floral offerings were very beautiful. The pallbearers were Daniel Hayes, T. F. Abbott, Samuel Watson, David Condon. The remains were interred in Oak Hill cemetery.

Anna Knipschield.

Anna Knipschield, the seven weeks' old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Knipschield passed away Tuesday afternoon at the home on Western avenue. The services were held this morning at nine o'clock from the home. Interment was made in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Tree Resembles Umbrella.

A curious tree grows in one of the numerous islands which are situated about the Pacific ocean. It grows, at its full height, to nearly 30 feet, with branches spreading like a huge umbrella, yet it is completely leafless, the species having never been known to show signs of a single bud. Its sap is useful as a medicine, but as sap the wood is worse than useless, being as hard as iron and quite as difficult to burn.

Removal Notice.

Dr. J. R. Wilfong has removed his office to the new rooms over Baker's Drug Store, Cor. Franklin and Milwaukee streets.

ACREAGE THIS YEAR MAY BE INCREASED

Janesville Dealers Expect a Slight Increase in the Number of Acres of Tobacco Land.

It seems to be the general impression among the Janesville tobacco dealers that the amount of tobacco planted this year will not vary a great deal from last year's acreage, and if any variation is noted, it will be in the direction of a larger crop. Although the present season has been nothing to brag of from the standpoint of the dealer, it has not affected the grower to any great extent. Consequently, those farmers who put part of their land in tobacco last year will do so again this year, while a few who have not been raising the plant for some time have stated their intention of putting a few acres in tobacco. The sleek and general bad weather of last week as far as can be learned worked no appreciable damage to the seed beds, and with the present spell of good weather the plants should get a good start.

At the present time almost all of last year's crop has been bought up and in Janesville at least, warehouse handling is almost at an end. There are now but three dealers who have yet to finish their work. Trade has been very light so far, but the confidence in the early revival of business which has been general during the spring still remains strong.

W. C. T. U. BANQUET NEXT WEDNESDAY

Representatives from All the Branches of the Organization in the County Will Be Present.

Final arrangements have been made for the W. C. T. U. banquet and reception which is to be held at East Side Odd Fellows' hall next Wednesday evening, commencing at half past six o'clock. The branches of the organization at Deloit, Evansville, Milton, Milton Junction, Harmony, and Clinton, will be represented, and a fine program has been arranged. Mrs. V. H. Campbell, the president of the county organization, will be one of the speakers.

AUTO CLUB MAY FOSTER SERIES OF RACE MEETS

During the Coming Summer Months—Dr. R. W. Edden Re-elected President of the Association.

At the annual meeting of the Janesville Automobile club this week Dr. R. W. Edden was re-elected president. M. R. Osburn was named as vice-president. Frank H. Blodgett, secretary and treasurer; and N. L. Corle, P. H. Korch, and E. T. Brown as a committee on taxation. The feasibility of giving monthly luncheon races at the fair grounds during the summer months, providing suitable arrangements could be made with the owners of the fair grounds was discussed and consideration was given to a suggestion that a hill-climbing contest, followed by a race meet, be held under local auspices, but no definite action was taken on any of these propositions.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Pfeiffer to Lose Foot: John Pfeiffer, the Milton blacksmith who had a foot run over by the cars last Saturday evening, is not to escape with the loss of two toes as was at first hoped. Surgeons have set in and as soon as the line of amputation develops Dr. G. C. Waudle will have to amputate.

Richardson Case Pending: The action brought by the federal government against Anthony Richardson, the Evansville colored barber, for selling liquor without a government license is still pending and the alleged offender is under bonds. His case may not come up until July. The report that he had paid a fine of over $250 appears to have been erroneous.

Joseph Crook Fined: Joseph Crook, a former Janesville resident, pleaded guilty in the Deloit municipal court yesterday morning to a charge of allowing minors to loiter about his saloon on State street and paid a fine of $10 and costs.

Attention, C. A. R.: There will be a special meeting of W. H. Sargent Post No. 29, G. A. R., this evening at 7:30 to make arrangements to attend the funeral of the late E. D. Coe of Whitewater.

All of Instructors Now Teaching in Public Schools Reappointed by Board of Education.

At the meeting of the Board of Education to select the teachers and principals of the schools of the city, Superintendent H. C. Duell was chosen to succeed himself as principal of the high school and superintendent of the city schools. All of the other instructors will also remain. In place of the former Miss Hayes, Miss Mary Doherty who took her place when Miss Hayes resigned, will have charge of the seventh grade of the Garfield school. In the Lincoln school no appointment has been made for the seventh grade, as it is yet undecided whether to continue this grade. Miss Emma Moore, the present instructor, will go to the Grant school. The kindergarten directors and their assistants in the Washington, Adams, Jefferson and Webster schools are the same as before.

FAMOUS SUMMER HOMES OF FAMOUS MEN.

Beverly, Mass.—Never was a summer resort prouder than when President Taft decided to locate at Woodbury Point for the summer. Beverly boasts many famous homes, but never before has it had a president of the United States summer in the vicinity. Three of the palatial summer homes along the bay are of special interest at this time. First of all is President Taft's at Woodbury Point. This will be the summer capital of the United States. From its spacious porches and state papers of international importance will go forth.

It is now being fitted up to receive millionaires and owns much of the real estate around Beverly. Including the house occupied by President Taft, so that he becomes the landlord of the president of the United States. All of the homes face the bay and no less pleasant or more charming location is to be found in the summer than that selected by the president.

He has come to America with the avowed intention of carrying back to the Emerald Isle, world Marathon honors.

Bolts of Gamblers.
Many people, especially among those who gamble, have a profound belief in lucky and unlucky numbers. An old Italian woman at Nice was an inveterate player at the "loto" stakes, which are decided by numbers. She had no system properly so-called, but wherever she went she kept her eyes open for numbers, and whether it was on a tramway car or a steamer, a sack of coals or a matchbox, she used to regard the numbers she collected in this haphazard way as good for her "petits billets."

Pepper Hash.
Save drippings and cold sirloin steak. Cut steak into pieces and to half a large salad bowl of steak add two green peppers, four tomatoes, and three large potatoes. Cut vegetables into pieces, slicing potatoes thick and irregular. Cover with water and season with salt only. Cook half an hour and thicken juice with a tablespoonful of flour. Serve with plain boiled rice and salad. This is a satisfying dish, and a plain dessert or nice jam with bread and butter makes a fine dinner. The dish can also be made from tender round steak that has been broiled or fried. Use only one pepper if they are strong.

Paris, May 6.—H. F. Wyler, a naturalized American citizen, who once had an office in New York, but who more recently has been engaged in promoting various American enterprises here, has fled from Paris, presumably for America, and the New York police have been notified. Wyler's flight followed his arrest here at the instance of Frank Alois of Brooklyn, who charged that he had failed to account for several thousand dollars belonging to a company in which both men were interested.

Lord Sholto Is Acquitted.
Vancouver, B. C., May 6.—Lord Sholto Douglas, son of the late Marquis of Queensberry, was acquitted yesterday of a charge of attempted murder. Last November Lord Sholto returned to his ranch house in Kootenai to find that his wife had been annoyed during his absence by a rancher named Rowland, whom he had previously warned away. Lord Sholto fired a load of buckshot into Rowland's neck.

AUTHENTIC MAP OF THE ROOSEVELT TRIP AND R. J. CUNNINGHAM ABE, ROOSEVELT'S HEAD GUIDE AND GENERAL MANAGER.

Ex-President Roosevelt's trip will be mostly included in what is known as the Uganda district, including Irish East Africa and the northern part of German East Africa. He will be conveyed by railway to Port Florence, thence by steamer around Victoria Nyanza, stopping at many interesting points, and including in a few side trips, from Entebbe, at the northwestern corner of Victoria Nyanza, he will proceed by caravan in a general northerly course, where most of his hunting will be done. From the main route he will make many extensive side trips for big game.

Koriat Roosevelt, accompanied by a special guide, a Portuguese Indian named Silva, will make several short trips away from the party. Silva is famous as an Indian hunter.

Longshoremen May Join Strike on Great Lakes.
Capt. T. V. O'Connor, international president of longshoremen, Chicago, Ill.—What threatens to be the greatest tie-up in lake transportation of recent years has been set on foot. The strike was started by the refusal of labor unions of the lakes to ship on boats controlled by the Lake Carriers' association.

Thousands are idle today in Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo and other centers. It is estimated that about 12,000 men are directly interested in the walk-out.

The longshoremen is the biggest of all lake unions and an effort is being made to have them strike in sympathy with the seamen's union. If they go out it will bring their president, Capt. T. V. O'Connor, into the limelight as one of the greatest factors in the fight. Capt. O'Connor succeeded Daniel J. Keefe of Detroit, Mich., who is now United States commissioner of immigration.

Does the World Think?
Man is evidently made for thought; this is his whole dignity and his whole merit; his whole duty is to think as he ought. Now the order of thought is to begin with self, and with its author and its end. Now of what thinks the world? Never of these things, but of dancing, playing the lute, stinging, making verses, tilting at the ring, etc., of fighting, making ourselves kings, without thinking what it is to be a king or what to be a man.—Pascal.

Home Course In Modern Agriculture

XVII.—The Farm Home

By C. V. GREGORY,
Agricultural Division, Iowa State College

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

THE farmer is more important than his farm, and the most important crop he raises is not corn nor hogs, but boys and girls. The success of a farmer is not measured so much by the money he makes as it is by the happiness he brings to himself and to his family. One of the surest ways of accomplishing this end is by making the home surroundings attractive.

There is no place on earth where it is easier to have an attractive home than on the farm. Yet in spite of this too many farm homes are located in the middle of a weed patch that goes by the name of garden or are hidden behind such a thick jungle of trees that it is impossible to see in or out.

The first thing to consider is the house itself. It should be situated on the highest part of the hill on which the farm buildings stand. A house need not be expensive to be homelike and convenient. Indeed, the most expensive houses are often the least homelike.

The starting point is the cellar. With but little additional expense this can be made the full size of the house. In this case the foundation walls should extend to the bottom of can be operated cheaply and will furnish an abundant supply of light.

The water system is another thing in which farmhouses are behind those in the city. There is scarcely a house in a town of any size but that is provided with water and sewage systems. In the country these are the exception rather than the rule, yet they can be put in at a small cost.

An air tight tank in the cellar is sometimes used to supply the pressure for a farm water system, but is rather expensive. The water can also be drawn from the elevated tank at the barn, if one is used there, the only disadvantage in this case being that clean water cannot be used. On the whole, the most satisfactory plan is to have a small galvanized tank in the attic. A little covering in the coldest weather will keep it from freezing, and a few minutes work with the elevator pump each day will keep it filled.

By having a heater attached to the furnace or to the kitchen stove and making the proper connections hot and cold water can be supplied to the bathroom, the wash room and anywhere else that it is wanted.

The laundry room downstairs is the place where the convenience of such a system will be appreciated most. In this room the washing machine, tubs, wringer and other utensils can be kept. An opening in the floor connected with the tile drain will carry off the waste water, and hot and cold water from upstairs will be always on tap. Such a room, together with the entire water system, can be fitted up for less than $100.

Another convenience that can be installed at small cost is a sewerage system. This can be connected with the bathtub and sink, and with a small additional expense another luxury that is seldom found on the farm, an indoor closet, can be added. Drainage pipes well cemented at the joints should be used in constructing the sewer. The cheapest form of outlet is the "septic tank." This is a small underground tank divided into four compartments, so arranged that when the first of these becomes full it will overflow into the second, and so on. The tank should be covered and provided with a ventilator. The action of bacteria in the septic tank will destroy all the solid matter, so that the water which flows out the lower end will be clear and have no objectionable odor. With an occasional cleaning out such a tank will last forever.

The house should be provided with plenty of porches. These increase the expense somewhat, but also add much to the comfort and appearance of the house. Vines trained up over them to keep out the sun and screens to keep out the flies make them still more comfortable.

Nothing adds more to the external appearance of the house than a neat lawn of ample size. Do not make it too large, however, or the work of mowing will be likely to be neglected. A lawn is not hard to make. A little work leveling and preparing a fine seed bed and a liberal application of blue grass seed that will grow will almost certainly result in a good lawn.

Do not make the common mistake of planting trees too close to the house. They detract from the appearance and make the house close and stuffy. The opposite extreme should be avoided also. A few trees about the edges of the lawn furnish grateful shade and provide a blanking for the picture of which the house is the central figure.

The decorative value of shrubs is often not appreciated as much as it should be. A climbing rosebush over the porch or a few dwarf varieties in one of the way corners will add to the color and beauty of the yard. There are many other flowering shrubs, such as snowballs, syringas and lilacs, that can be used to fill in empty spaces and corners.

A row or two of hard maples or elms along the driveway, with a thick evergreen windbreak to the north, will finish the supply of necessary trees unless there are corners or bare spaces about the yards that will be better for a tree or two.

INVITED TO VISIT HOSPITAL

Commission in Charge of "Sleeping Sickness" Camp Hope He Will View Their Work—Doctors Give Up Their Lives for Science.

Nairobi, British East Africa, May 6.—Theodore Roosevelt went lion hunting again yesterday, and before the chase was over two more big lions had fallen before his gun. These animals were encountered and killed in the tall grass.

Mr. Roosevelt now holds the record for lion killing in the protectorate. Since Saturday of last week a total of five lions and one lioness have been bagged by him.

Mombasa, British East Africa, May 6.—The sleeping sickness commission has expressed the hope that Theodore Roosevelt will pay a visit to the expedition's camp at Somo, Uganda, where Sir David and Lady Bruce are in charge of the segregation hospitals.

The governments of Germany, France and Belgium, as well as the government of the United Kingdom, are loyally working together, endeavoring to find a cure or preventive for the sleeping sickness. Altogether seven European doctors have succumbed to the fatal disease since the attempt to cope with the evil was commenced.

Gov. Sir Hesketh Bell, in appealing to the millionaires of the world and others benevolently disposed for money gifts to enable him to purchase and slaughter stock to graze the one and only craving of those suffering is so intense, which is summed up in the word "meat," describes his latest visit to the camp in part as follows:

"The patients were lodged in large thatched huts and were divided according to sex and the various stages of the disease.

Infants Unaware of Doom. In one enclosure we saw a number of infants, in whom the first outward signs of the scourge were just appearing. Unaware of their impending doom, the little black nites played and romped to their hearts' content in the shade of the banana grove, and only the swollen glands at the base of their necks showed that their fate was sealed. It was and indeed to think that in a very short time those merry peals of laughter would gradually become more and more rare, and that all those poor little creatures in whom the joy of life was strong would, after a year or two of misery, be laid in the crowded cemetery that I could just see between the trees.

In a row of sheds, surrounded by the banana groves which supply the food for the patients, we saw numbers of those who had reached the second stage of the disease. Most of them appeared to be suffering acutely. They seemed to shun the cool shade of the broad thatched roofs, and preferred to sit or lie in the full blaze of the noonday sun. Even there many of them shivered almost constantly, and drew about their emaciated limbs the brown rags of bark cloth which partly covered them. The drawn features and haggard eyes testified to the gnawing pains that almost constantly afflicted them, and the unhappy creatures appeared to have special dread of being touched."

Two Die in a Buggy. Love Spurned, Man Kills Girl and Commits Suicide.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 6.—Arthur Stitt and Miss Lesta Stroud were found dying in a buggy in Central avenue yesterday. Stitt, it is believed, had given the woman carbolic acid with whisky and then taken a dose of the poison himself. Both died a short time after they were found.

The tragedy is believed to have been the result of Stitt's being spurned by the girl. It is said Stitt openly threatened to end the girl's life and his own if she spurned his love.

Citizenship for Iowa Indians. Des Moines, Ia., May 6.—Government inspectors, after investigating conditions at the Tama Indian reservation in Tama county will report to the government to grant the Indians full rights of citizenship on the grounds that the wards of the government are full land owners and consequently too troublesome. County officials could handle them more effectively and stamp out drunkenness, inspectors say.

Types of Unselfishness. There are two types of unselfishness. One is always found in connection with a noble self-esteem that prevents the virtue from degenerating into a vice; the other is associated with a self-effacement, a lack of individuality, a fickleness of will that make its owner merely a vehicle for a conspicuous exhibition of self-sacrifice.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION

FOR DECORATING GLASS

AUTO LAMPS THAT TURN

Plastic Material Fused Thereon in Any Outline Desired.

A quick and inexpensive method of making decorated glass has been invented by a Pennsylvania inventor. The process consists in depositing a thin film of plastic material on the glass in outline of whatever design is desired. The glass is then fired and fused with the material, making a clear design. Colors can be applied to the glass wherever desired, thus giving the effect of stained glass, as in church windows, fancy door lights, etc. Or, the process without coloring can be made to resemble leaded glass.

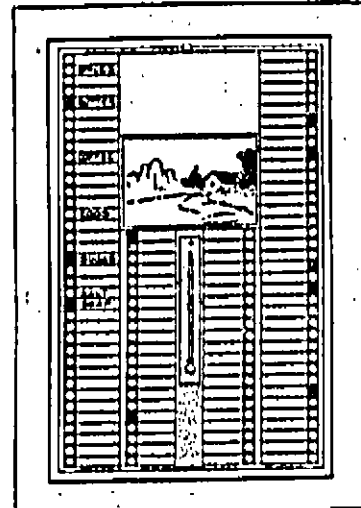

QUICK AND INEXPENSIVE

glass. It will be readily noted that this is a very quick and simple method of decoration, as compared with the old process. Leaded border effects can be secured in the same way, though the chief value of this new method is the facility with which almost any design can be produced by any person who is a sufficiently competent draughtsman to outline them in the plastic material.

KITCHEN REMINDER

Colored Balls Tell What Supplies Are Needed and What Not.

Hereafter there will be no excuse for a housewife if she runs out of supplies of any kind. A Massachusetts man of the month of April has devised a kitchen reminder that will always keep before her the things she needs in order when the grocer's clerk stops around. This contrivance is a large card, bearing the names of articles of household use. Running up and down the card are wires, upon which are mounted particularly beads, one side of the beads being white and the other side red, or some other color. Each name on the card has a bead opposite it. When a color on the bead is turned it indicates a supply of the article on hand. The other color indicates that the supply is exhausted. At the top of the card is a calendar and in the center is an illustration of some kind to add to the attractiveness of the whole. Below the picture is a thermometer and below the thermometer is a strip of sandpaper to scratch matches on.

SCIENCE NOTES

An ingenious instrument for the examination of the back of the human eye has been invented by Dr. Carl Hertel, of Berlin, says a writer in the London Graphic. While it must be recognized as an adjunct to the familiar ophthalmoscope, it possesses nevertheless, separate and distinctive value, and has already served many useful purposes. Essentially, the "ophthalmoscope" as it is called, consists of a portable cylindrical electric lamp of about 20 illuminate the road when running around curves.

The mobility of automobile accidents are attributed to the inability of the lamps to illuminate the roadway when running around curves. An Ohio inventor has designed and patented a device which makes possible the turning of the lamps with the steering apparatus, as shown in the illustration. The roadway in front of the automobile is thus as well illuminated in running curves as on a straight road. With automobile lamps stationarily attached to the frame of the machine, as is now customary, the illuminated stretch, when going around a curve or a circular track is away off in fields, or on the side of some one's house, instead of on the path the machine is taking. The apparatus is attached to the steering wheel so that the turning of the steering wheel not only swings the forward wheels, but also the lamps.

and power, with self-contained tube, providing for water-cooling at the lower end is an electric fan or wire, which is joined up to an electric-lighting supply box when the apparatus is in use and current required.

The patient places the instrument in the mouth, as far back as possible and against the upper wall of the buccal cavity. The light is then turned on. Viewing the pupil of the eye from the front, the highly illuminated retina is brought before the ophthalmic surgeon, who is able thus to diagnose the abnormalities of the membranes and pathological conditions of the back of the eye. A black mass is seen, the subject in order that the impression given by the central field of illumination may not be impaired.

Firing a gun at a vessel in order to "save" it seems on the face of it to be a rather questionable proceeding, but that was the program carried out in the Kappa Day, Singapore, recently. An oil steamer of about 1,000 tons caught fire while at anchor, and the captain, seeing that the only hope of partially saving her was to sink her in shallow water, applied to the military authorities for assistance. The latter towed the vessel to a suitable position in front of one of the batteries, and a semicircular white mark, about two feet in diameter, was made just at the waterline. Firing then began with a 4-inch gun. The first two shots pierced the hullmark a few feet above the mark, and the third fell short. The next shot, however, passed through the "bull," and all the subsequent ones—twelve in all being fired—were similarly successful, by which time the steamer had been sufficiently submerged.

The United States in the matter of cement output leads all the countries of the world. The figures, based on the latest year for which all the data can be obtained, are estimated as follows: United States, 8,125,000 tons; Germany, 4,000,000 tons; England, 3,500,000 tons; France, 2,500,000 tons; Canada, 2,000,000 tons; Russia, 2,000,000 tons; Belgium, 2,000,000 tons; Denmark, 2,000,000 tons; Sweden, 2,000,000 tons; Austria, 2,000,000 tons; Italy, 2,000,000 tons; Sweden, 2,000,000 tons; Japan, 2,000,000 tons. Total, 28,925,000 tons. Accepting this total of 28,925,000 tons per year as representing the world's output, this would be equivalent to 100,000 barrels.

A concrete safe has been installed at the South side of the residence of engineer or the large canal, Mr. Pickwick. These safes are the invention of H. H. Finlay, and are used by the engineers to preserve their records, drawings and the instruments from the weather and as a protection against fire. The safe in question has a steel door and interior lining, with combination lock, and is mounted of concrete in one piece. The cost is little compared to that of a steel safe, and for all practical purposes they are as good. When the engineer moves to another place the concrete shell can be stripped of the door and lining and another safe constructed elsewhere from the same wooden forms. The safes used by the state in the large canal work measure about three feet in diameter on the inside.

NEW SUBMARINES ADDED TO THE NAVY DEPARTMENT.

Picture at top shows the submarine Stingray as it slid off the ways into the water at Quincy, Mass. Below is seen the Tarpon on the ways just before launching.

Quincy, Mass.—The launching of three new submarines marks an epoch in the development of the United States navy. Two of the boats were of the Holland type and the third "Narwhal" represents a new class of greater size, power and speed than the earlier vessels of our submarine fleet.

The "Tarpon" and "Stingray" are each 67 feet long, with 13 feet 10 inches beam. They are driven when at the surface by internal combustion engines at a speed of 11 knots. In the submerged condition, the internal-combustion engines are shut off, and the boats are driven by electric motors served by storage batteries of large capacity. The submerged speed is 10 knots. Steering in a horizontal plane is controlled by vertical rudders, and the degree submergence is controlled by horizontal rudders acting in conjunction with submergence tanks, which are filled and emptied at will. The boats are provided with light superstructures, extending the full length of the hull, which is of an inverted V section at the forward and after portions and broadens out amidships, where it includes the conning tower. The latter extends about 6 feet above the superstructure deck, and through its roof project the air intake and the periscope. Two torpedo-launching tubes are provided at the bow, and each boat carries four torpedoes.

The "Narwhal" is a much larger vessel, and the increased displacement has made possible a considerable increase in both the speed and the armament. Though the beam remains the same as in the "Tarpon," viz, 12 feet 10 inches, the length has been increased by 20 feet, from 105 to 125 feet. This gives a finer form, and reduces the wavemaking, when the boat is steaming at the surface; the speed being 13 knots as against 11 knots for the "Tarpon." The powers of attack have been practically doubled by the provision of four torpedo tubes, as against two in the "Tarpon."

All three vessels were launched in a practically complete condition, and will soon be given their trials.

What mythological character.

THE TARIFF BILL STILL LAGS

TAFT FEARS CONGRESS WILL NOT PASS MEASURE BY JULY 1.

CONFERENCE IS YET TO COME

Senate and House Members Must Discuss Measure Before Law Is Enacted—Aldrich and Culberson Compare Increases and Decreases.

Washington, May 6.—President Taft, after conferring with leaders of senate and house, is convinced that there is no chance for the passage of the tariff bill before July 1.

The senate is not making the headway with the Aldrich measure that was expected and before the new tariff law can be presented to the president for his action there must ensue a long conference between the representatives of the two houses of congress.

Taft to Use Influence. Among those who have followed the trend of important legislation on the tariff, there is a belief that the real tariff revision bill remains to be framed in conference. Whatever influence President Taft feels he can bring to bear in securing a satisfactory measure will be exerted upon the conferees. The president is averse to being drawn into the fight at any stage and there is no thought that he will be until the conferees begin their consideration of the two bills as passed by the house and senate.

In view of conflicting reports as to the president's attitude on the various special taxation propositions that have been suggested in connection with the new bill, the president has reiterated his position to recent callers. He is still hopeful that the revenue to be derived from the new bill and with economies in the administration of the government, will prove sufficient to prevent a deficit. If it should be shown, however, that the government finances are in need of further support to meet the current expenditures, the president will adhere to his original proposition that a graduated federal inheritance tax is the most just that could be levied and would prove the easiest to collect. If such a tax should not prove sufficient to meet the necessities of the government, or if it should not appeal to the majority of congress, the president favors as a substitute or as an additional means of collecting revenue, the imposition of an excise tax on the dividends of corporations. An income tax, he believes, should be levied only as a last resort.

Aldrich Makes Statement. Statements were made to the senate by Senator Aldrich, representing the finance committee, and Senator Culberson, the minority leader, analyzing the tariff bill as it was reported to the senate and comparing it, so far as increases and reductions are concerned, with the Dingley law. Senator Culberson figured the decreases to be 350, the increases 310 and the number of articles on which the duties are unchanged to be 1,271. Mr. Aldrich made the reductions 373, but furnished no figures as to the number of increases made. He expressed surprise at the number of increases announced by Mr. Culberson and declared that the statement must have been prepared "by a very wonderful man." Mr. Culberson retorted that they were prepared by an expert from the treasury department, who is thoroughly competent.

The principal schedules on which there have been increases, according to Mr. Aldrich's summary of the higher duties of the senate bill are agricultural products and the various luxuries.

"SHOW" CONGRESS THEIR AIM.

Army Balloonists Plan to Make Flight Over Capitol Today.

Washington, May 6.—The Fort Myer aerodrome, the scene of last year's aerial experiments by the signal corps of the army, showed signs of renewed activity today when the army dirigible No. 1 was prepared for the initial flight of the season.

The motor balloon, which was purchased from Capt. Thomas Scott Baldwin after a series of drastic tests last August, is a miniature affair when compared to those of foreign countries. It is 90 feet long, with a wooden frame suspended from a semi-rigid gas envelope. It averages a speed of nearly twenty miles an hour and carries two men.

Lieut. Frank P. Lahm, who is in direct charge of the tests, and Lieut. Benjamin D. Fowles, will make the flight. It is their ambition to cross the Potomac and fly over the city of Washington while the members of congress are in the city in order to demonstrate to any "doubting Thomases" the possibilities of military aeronautics.

Secretary Knox 56 Years Old. Washington, May 6.—Secretary of State Philander C. Knox is receiving the congratulations of his friends today, for it is his birthday. The secretary is 56 years old. Letters and telegrams from numerous acquaintances were received by him, as well as many personal callers.

RUMOR OF PATTEN CONTROL CAUSES QUICK WHEAT RISE

Price of May Grain Leaps Skyward, When Private Wire Story Is Circulated.

Chicago, May 6.—May wheat was forced above the recent high mark yesterday by the report that James A. Patten had assumed control again over a private wire from the Bartlett ranch in New Mexico.

"Patten is in again," was the word passed down the line by the bulls. Within an hour after the opening May was sold at $1.29, one-fourth cent higher than the high point reached at the time of the Patten corner. July was forced to $1.17, the highest point yet reached, and the bulls declared it would be sent up as high as May before the end of trading in it.

The traders at noon freely prophesied $1.30 for May shortly. May, which closed Tuesday at $1.28, opened at $1.18, and within ten minutes shorts were frantically bidding $1.29 1/2. Every broker in La Salle street remembered the parting words of the "king of the pit" before he fled westward:

"May wheat will pass the $1.30 mark before delivery day." The July option opened at $1.16, the closing price Wednesday, and after holding steady five minutes while attention was centered on May, began leaping upward in jumps of one-fourth cent. In another five minutes it was at $1.17.

The rumor that Patten, at the end of a long wire, was again in command of the situation spread like fire through the street before the opening of the board.

AMERICAN MARKSMEN LOSE.

Britons Make Best Scores in Small-Bore Match.

Washington, May 6.—British riflemen in the international small bore match just ended, demonstrated their superiority over the Americans. The match was a friendly one with honor rules on gallery ranges in the respective countries.

The targets were issued by the British Society of Miniature Rifle Clubs, were signed by the respective associations and interchanged, and the results announced by cable. Australia, the other contestant, has not yet been heard from but the National Rifle Association of America, under whose auspices the contests were conducted in this country, is of the opinion that their scores will not equal those of the British team.

The British team made the grand total of 14,583 points out of a possible 15,000, or an average of 291 per man. The scores of the American team were 14,179.

"SICK MAN" ESCAPES SHERIFF.

Alleged Forger Works Successful Dodge on a Minnesota Officer.

Kansas City, Mo., May 6.—Dr. Frank R. Hanson, who is wanted in Jackson, Minn., on a charge of forging a check for $8,000, escaped from Henry Terhaar, sheriff of Jackson county, Minnesota, at the Bloomington house yesterday, by feigning illness.

Six weeks ago Hanson disappeared from Jackson, where he has been a practicing physician. He was arrested in Colorado Springs and Sheriff Terhaar went after him. Hanson's apparent illness when they reached Kansas City caused the sheriff to take him to the hotel rather than continue on the journey.

PLOT TO KIDNAP GOVERNOR'S SON

Prisoner in California Had Daring Plan to Gain Freedom.

Oakland, Cal., May 6.—A plot to kidnap the eight-year-old son of Gov. Gilllette was unearthed at San Quentin prison when it was found that J. V. Clifton, one of the most notorious criminals in the state, who is serving time for attempting the life of Detective Hollins in Oakland, had completed arrangements with a confederate on the outside to steal the boy and hold him for ransom.

The price of the lad's return to his father was to have been Clifton's pardon.

Decision in Bankruptcy Case.

FACE STARVATION; EVERY MAN KILLED

HOMELESS THOUSANDS SUFFER FROM HUNGER FOLLOWING TURK MASSACRES.

TROOPS STOP THE LOOTING

Girls and Women Forced to Become Mohammedans and Many Are Carried Away—People at Harri Eat Grass Like Animals.

Marash, May 6.—A letter received by messenger from Harri says that every man there has been killed. Only women, girls and boys under ten years of age have been left alive. The churches and houses were plundered and most of them were burned. The letter, which is from the widow of a clergyman, says:

"We have nothing to eat or wear. We are living on grass like animals. Worse than this, the Mohammedans are trying to force the women and girls to become Mohammedans. Already some of the women have been carried away."

Lucius O. Lee, a missionary here, says:

"We are trying to send food to Harri, although it is dangerous, and to bring away the women as well."

Much excitement has been caused here by the attempts of the authorities to arrest some of those who have murdered Christians.

Adana, May 6.—The French Jesuit girls' school was burned on Saturday night. Many persons are dying from exposure, and relief measures are exceedingly pressing.

Need Food and Medicine.

Harri, Asiatic Turkey, May 6.—Hunger for food and ill thousands of persons are in desperate straits in this district since the bullets, swords and bayonets have slain nearly all the men.

The troops arrived just in time, as the besiegers had succeeded in setting fire to a house on the edge of the city. The fire spread, but as the breeze was blowing away from the town, only five buildings were destroyed. A heavy rifle fire was kept up against those who tried to extinguish the flames.

Many Killed and Wounded. The Mohammedans outside the walls, who seemingly numbered many thousands, pushed their attacks energetically against the inhabitants, killing and wounding many. They were so eager to get inside the city and plunder the place that they did not observe the approach of Louth Boy and his troops until they were close upon them, whereupon the Mohammedans fled precipitately, carrying off all the cattle outside the city.

Changes in Cabinet.

Constantinople, May 6.—Ismail Pasha and Mollah Sahib yesterday were installed respectively as grand vizier of the empire and shahkulu, or head of the faith. The former succeeds Tewfik Pasha, and the latter Zia Eddin Effendi.

American Ships at Gibraltar.

Gibraltar, May 6.—The United States armored cruisers Montana and North Carolina, which left Guantanamo, Cuba, April 23, arrived here yesterday. The cruisers are now coaling and will proceed in a day or two for Alexandria, Asiatic Turkey, to protect American interests.

Washington, May 6.—Five thousand dollars were sent by the Red Cross society to American Ambassador Lohman at Constantinople to be used by him at his discretion for the relief of the sufferers in Turkey.

MRS. STRINGER IS INSANE.

Alleged Blackmailer Must Go to Indiana Asylum.

Washington, Ind., May 6.—Mrs. Della Stringer, charged with having attempted to obtain, by threats contained in a letter, $20,000 from President Road of the First National bank of this city, was acquitted yesterday afternoon, but the court at once ordered that an insanity commission pronounce upon her mental condition. She was adjudged of unsound mind and committed to the Southern Hospital for the Insane. The decision was arrived at with the consent of the state's attorney.

Efforts to discover the persons that were implicated with the woman in the unsuccessful plot thus far have proved unavailing, but it is expected that in a few weeks it will be possible to obtain some definite information from her. The woman was shot from ambush when she went to the place she had stipulated Mr. Road's money should be deposited.

Tornado Destroys Oklahoma Town.

Muskogee, Okla., May 6.—It was reported here this morning that a tornado had swept Carter county, Oklahoma, and that Ardmore, a town of 15,000, had been devastated. All wires in the vicinity are down and it was impossible to confirm the reports. Western Union Telegraph Company advices tell of a severe storm near Ardmore.

Castro Going to Canaries.

San Sebastian, Spain, May 6.—Ex-President Castro of Venezuela said that his physicians advised him to go to the Canary Islands. He expressed the hope that the Spanish government would raise no objection to his residence there, as he was desirous of living henceforth away from political agitation.

MISSOURI SENATE PASSES PROHIBITION RESOLUTION

Adds a Tax Rider Which May Not Be Accepted by the House—Prohibitionists Discouraged.

Jefferson City, Mo., May 6.—A resolution providing for the submission to the people of a state-wide prohibition amendment, was passed by the Missouri senate yesterday.

The amendment which came to the senate from the house was amended with a tax rider which provides for the doubling of the rate of taxation. The final vote was 23 to 8, with two senators not voting.

The senate then took out of the amendment the provision making the amendment effective in 1913, if adopted by the people, and now if the house concurs it will become effective immediately if it carries at the next general election. The debate was at times acrimonious between the "wet" and "dry" senators.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union representatives gave each senator a white carnation just before the prohibition measure was taken up.

The whole matter must now go to the house, and it is predicted that, because of the short time before the legislature adjourns, that the house will not agree to the amendment calling for extra taxes and that no further action can be taken at this session. The prohibition advocates are much discouraged at the prospective defeat of the measure.

The first amendment to the resolution in the senate, taking out the date for taking effect in 1913, received 27 votes to 7 in the negative. The tax rider was added by a vote of 18 to 16. The house took a recess while the senate was discussing the prohibition resolution and attended the session in a body.

WHITLA KIDNAPER ON TRIAL.

Jury Selected to Try Doyle—Wife Was Mrs. Shaeffer.

Mercer, Pa., May 6.—James H. Doyle, charged with the abduction of Willie Whitla of Sharon, Pa., was placed on trial late yesterday afternoon. When court adjourned for the day one hour later, the jury had been selected temporarily. Little difficulty was experienced in securing the jury. Each man was closely questioned and only 27 were examined before the box was filled. It is believed the trial can be concluded before the end of the present week.

The prosecution has obtained this statement:

"Holy Family Church, 417 West Twelfth Street, Chicago, Ill. "On the 4th day of February, 1905, I united in the bonds of matrimony Edward Shaeffer and Anna McDermott in this city, in the presence of John Butler and Mary Middleman, dispensation of differing religions having been obtained.

"G. A. GONZALEZ, R. J." Rev. Father Gonzales is now stationed at Toledo, and T. C. Cochran, for the prosecution, made an effort to have him come here to try to identify Mrs. Doyle as the woman he had united in marriage to Shaeffer, but he positively declined to come.

HOLD TENTH CONVENTION.

American Therapeutic Society Is in Session at Yale.

New Haven, Conn., May 6.—With President Frederic H. Gorrie of Portland in the chair, the tenth annual meeting of the American Therapeutic society was opened this morning with a business session in Lamson hall, Yale university. After the reception of various reports President Hadley of Yale made an address of welcome, to which Thomas E. Butterfield of New York responded. Vice-President A. D. Blackader of Montreal then took the chair and President Gorrie delivered his annual address on "The Therapeutic Value of Hypnotic Suggestion." Several interesting papers were read at the afternoon session, after which the visitors were the guests of the Connecticut members in a drive through East Rock park. Dinner will be served this evening at the Country club.

Tomorrow and Saturday there will be numerous papers and symposiums. The president's reception will be held tomorrow evening at the Harmonie club, and the meeting will close Saturday night with the annual dinner at the Union League club.

Health and Beauty Hints

BY MISS MAE MARTYN.

J. M. S.: Not I do not know of any means to increase the height. "How to grow tall" is beyond my knowledge. I advise you to quit worrying and be content to remain as you are. I am glad you like my shampoo recipe and I am sorry you had trouble in getting it. I never mention an ingredient for any recipe that you cannot obtain in any first-class drug store without difficulty. If your drugist happens to be out of any article named he can easily obtain it from his wholesaler.

Anxious Inquirer: Large pores and blackheads are frequently caused by use of face powders. Ammonium cream jelly (you can make it yourself) is the best remedy I know for clearing the skin of blackheads, large pores, certain types of pimples, etc. Put an ounce of ammonium in a fruit jar and 1/2 pint of cold water and two teaspoonfuls of glycerine, stir briskly for a few minutes and let stand until it becomes a thick cream jelly. For morning use, apply with the fingers and let remain for a minute on the face, and then rub well with the hands. The dirt will at once roll off and the pores will be thoroughly cleaned. In cases of tan, freckles, chapped face, etc., apply and let remain for a few hours. It contains no fats or oils that will cause hair to grow, so you can use it as freely as you wish.

X. Y. Z.: Face lotions or washes are to be preferred to ordinary face powders, but the manufactured brands are pretty expensive for everyday use. Your salicylic, dark and oily skin can be made white and more youthful if you will use this recipe: To a half pint of hot water and two teaspoonfuls of glycerine add 4 ounces of aspirin; let stand until cold. Apply to the hands and face with the palm of the hand and continue rubbing the skin where applied until dry. This is a complexion beautifier that whitens the skin. It is also good for cold sores.

Ellen R.: To keep your eyes bright and clear, use an eye tonic made by dissolving an ounce of erythrol in a pint of water. This makes an eye tonic that is good for tired, weak or inflamed eyes. It will not smart or burn. It strengthens the sight, tends to make the eyes beautiful and lustreous and is up to those who wear glasses. Apply by dropping one or two drops in each eye.

Grace J.: Your blood is out of order and the blotches on your face are probably caused by torpid liver. Get from your drugist 1 ounce of santonin and 1/2 pint of alcohol. To these add 1/2 tea cup of sugar and put into 1 1/2 pints of boiling water. This will make a splendid blood tonic and liver invigorator and it is a good remedy for pimples, yellow blotches, sallow complexion, scurfiness and all eruptions of the skin. Take 1 tablespoonful 5 minutes before each meal and before retiring. Keep outdoors as much as possible.

Robt. W.: You can make a fine quinine hair tonic as follows: To 1 ounce of quinine add 1/2 pint of alcohol and 1/2 pint of cold water; let stand until the quinine is dissolved. Rub in well until absorbed. This will remove dandruff, and stop falling hair, relieve itching scalp, keep the scalp in healthy condition, and promote the growth of hair. If used once or twice a week, shampoo the hair twice a month. See answer to B. B.

B. B.: The best and cheapest shampoo I know of is made from pure, plain cantharox. Simply dissolve a teaspoonful of cantharox in a tea cup of hot water and stir well until all is dissolved; then proceed to shampoo by pouring it on the hair and rubbing well. This makes a fine lather and cleans the scalp, relieves irritation and makes the hair soft and fluffy—and such a shampoo costs less than one cent. See answer to Robt. W. for making a good hair tonic.

M. W.: It is true that exorcising and dieting have brought about satisfactory results to many who considered themselves too fat, but if you are so situated that you cannot take exercise and find that dieting weakens you, I would advise you to try a simple mixture of paraffin and warm water. Put 4 ounces of paraffin in a pint of warm water and shake well until dissolved. When cold it is ready for use. Take a tablespoonful 3 times a day and just before meals. This is a harmless flesh reducer.

Mrs. L. L.: Yes, eczema is frequently caused by humors. Exposing the hands to hot water, the heat of the oven, or other changes of temperature brings about this affliction. A good remedy for eczema, tetter and other skin diseases is made by mixing 4 ounces of lard with 1/2 pint of water and 1 tablespoonful of alcohol. After shaking the bottle pour a small quantity upon the rough and itching surface and allow it to dry, repeating the treatment several times each day until the irritation disappears and the skin is restored to a healthy condition.

L. G. M.: For unbroken chilblains rub with common table salt is one of the best remedies known. Add just enough water to make the salt damp.

NO ONE KNEW WHAT CAUSED IT.

No one could have told you what caused rheumatism twenty-five years ago, and it seems a large number do not know yet, for recently a popular weekly publication came out with an article by a well known and learned specialist, who frankly stated that rheumatism was so elusive that one could not fathom it. He was mistaken in saying that no one could do this, for he neglected to remember "Rheumaline" in his reckoning. Holmstreet's Drug Store are free to admit that Rheumaline has done more for rheumatism than anything they have ever handled, and they have watched the effect of numberless medicines, and, as they sell all, naturally their view would be unbiased.

There is only one reason for Rheumaline's success, and that is that it does the business. It acts quickly and effectively and in direct contradiction to the eminent gentleman's statements above. Rheumaline is a sure and certain relief for rheumatism, lumbago, sciatic, neuralgia, gout and kidney, liver, bladder, stomach and blood troubles caused by uric acid, and it does not injure the stomach nor affect the heart action because it contains no injurious drugs or opiates. Rheumatism has thousands of unsatisfied sufferers and saleswomen, unsatisfied because of their own choosing. Rheumatism has cured them and they can not recommend it too highly. Don't let prejudice be a detriment of your health. Just because Rheumaline is advertised is no sign it is unworthy of consideration. We could not last in business if there was no merit to Rheumaline. Holmstreet's Drug Store, which has the sole agency of Rheumaline, could not recommend it consistently if it were not worthy. Think it over—then try it out. Rheumaline Capsules relieve pain immediately, and Rheumaline Tablets are a quick and pleasant relief for constipation. Get Rheumaline. It removes the cause.

Danderine

Grows Hair and we can PROVE IT!

DANDERINE is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them, its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow abundantly long, strong and beautiful. It once imparts a sparkling brilliancy and velvety softness to the hair, and a few weeks' use will cause new hair to sprout all over the scalp. Use it every day for a short time, after which two or three times a week will be sufficient to complete whatever growth you desire.

A lady from St. Paul writes in substance, as follows:

"When I began using Danderine my hair would not come in my shoulders and now it is away before my eyes."

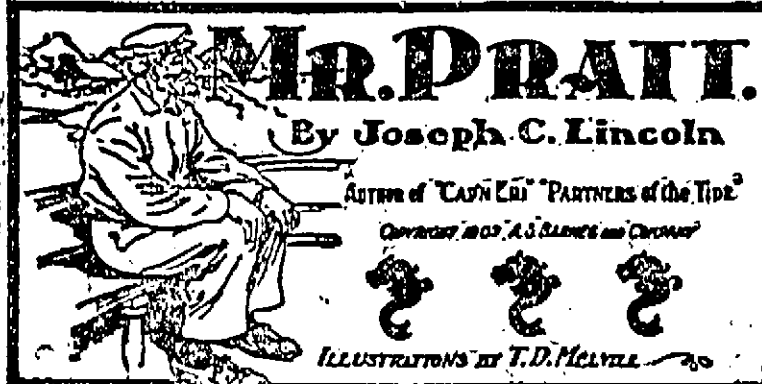

Another from Newark, N. J., writes: "I have been using Danderine regularly. When first started to use it I had very little hair. Now I have a beautiful head of hair and think that anyone would want to have it."

NOW at all drugists in three sizes 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle

Danderine enjoys a greater sale than any other hair preparation regardless of kind or brand, and it has a much greater sale than all of the other hair preparations in the world combined.

Harley didn't say nothing. He never spoke to old man Sparrow nor of him, far's that went.

"All right," Eureka says. "Thank you."

"What's the cook got up her sleeve concerning the afflicted parent?" asks Van of me.

"I don't know," says I. And I didn't. That afternoon Eureka got me to help her lug the haircloth lounge from the front parlor out to the spare shed, the one we didn't use. 'Twas a little ten by six building that Marceline had for a toolhouse, and the shingles were falling off and the roof and sides full of cracks and knotholes. We set the lounge down in there.

"What on earth?" says I. "I'm going to tell you," says she. "Mr. Harley said I could have the lounge."

Then she told what her plan was. 'Twas a mighty good one, and I promised to help along. I laughed over it till supper time.

That evening we was all in the dining room. The weather had changed lately and the nights was chilly and windy. 'Twasn't pleasant enough for the Twine to be on the porch, and Washy had come down from his room and was all lunched up in front of the stove in the kitchen. Eureka was just finishing the dishes. All of a sudden I heard her say:

"Pa, I don't s'pose you feel well enough to go to work?"

I could hear her dad's feet come down off the stove hearth with a clump. He started to speak, and then, remembering himself, he coughed, as hollow as an empty boiler.

"I asked," Eureka goes on, "because I saw Mr. Brown yesterday and he said you could have that job at the hotel any time you wanted it."

"Hotel job!" hollers Washy. "How long do you callate I'd last luggin' bricks and diggin'?" Ain't you satisfied to see me slipping into the grave day by day, without wanting to shove me under all at once?"

"No, I know you wa'n't fit to work. But pa, I've been hoping to find a way to cure you some day, and now I've learned the way. And I'm going to try it."

Washy coughed again. I was listening with all my ears, and I see the Twine doing the same.

"Care? Humph!" sniffs the old man. "I'm past curing, doctor. Don't you worry about me. Let me die, that's all; let me die. Only I hope 'twon't be too slow. Carol! The doctors give me up long spell ago."

"Doctors give you up! What doctors? Nobody but Penrose, and you've said more'n a thousand times that he wa'n't no doctor. I've been reading up lately and I know how real doctors cure folks."

"It ain't no use—" begins her dad. She cut him short.

"Your case is kind of mixed-up, pa," says she, "I'm free to say, owing to your consumption being complicated with nervous dyspepsy. But I've made up my mind to start in on your lungs and kind of work 'round to your stomach. You listen to this:"

She come in the dining room and took a magazine out of the chest of drawers. Then she opened to a place where the leaf was turned down, and went back to the kitchen.

"Consumption, pa," she says, "ain't cured by medicine no more. Not by the real doctors, it ain't. You say yourself that all Miss Page's medicine ain't done you no good. Fresh air night, and day is what's wanted, and you don't got it here by the stove or shut up in your room. You ought to live out door. Yes, and sleep there, too."

"Sleep out door? What kind of talk is that? Do you crazy or—"

"Don't screech so, pa," says Eureka, cold as an ice chest. "Folks over on the main will think this place is on fire. Listen to this. Here's a place about consumption in this magazine. They call it the 'White Plague.' I'll read some of it."

"The Heavens was in a broad grin by this time. Washy kept yelling that he didn't want to hear no such fool talk, but his daughter spelt out different parts of the magazine place. It told about how dangerous shut-up rooms and "confined atmospheres" was, and about what it called "open-air sanitariums" and outdoor bedrooms.

"See, pa," says she, "look at this picture. Here's a tent where two consumptive folks lived and slept for over a year. 'Twas 30 below zero there sometimes, but it cured 'em. And see this one, 'Twas 45 below where that shanty was, but—"

The invalid jumped out of his chair and come bolting into the dining room. "Take it away!" he yells, frantic. "If you expect me to believe such lies as them you're—"

"They ain't lies," says Eureka, following him up, and speaking calm and easy. "They're true; ain't they, Mr. Van Brunt?"

Van smothered his grins and nodded.

"True as gospel," he says. "Yes, course they be. And pa, I'm going to cure you or die a-tryin'. The old toolhouse out back of the barn is just the place for you. It's full of holes and cracks, no there'll be plenty of fresh air. And I took the s'fry out there this very day. You can sleep there nights and set in the sun day times. You mustn't come in the house at all. I mean to keep you outdoor all winter, and then—"

The Heavens just howled and so did L. Washy Sparrow howled, too, but not from laughing.

"All winter!" he screams. "The gals gone loony! She wants to kill me and get me out of the way. I shan't stir one step. You hear me? Not one step!"

"This piece says that many patients act that way first along. In such cases it is often necessary to use force," Mr. Pratt, will you take pa out to the tool shed? I'll carry the lamp."

Would I? I was aching for the chance to get my hands on the little rat. I stood up and squared my shoulders.

"Mr. Van Brunt," yells Washy, dodging into the corner, "do you going to set by and see me murdered? Didn't you swear your Bible oath to treat me kind?"

"There couldn't be nothing kinder than curing you, pa," says Eureka. "It's all right, ain't it, Mr. Van Brunt?"

Van didn't answer for a second. Then he says, like he'd decided: "Yes, it's dead right. Go ahead and cure him, for heaven's sake, if you can! I'll back you up and take my chances."

"My nerves—" begins Washy. "Nerves," says Eureka, "come from the stomach. I'll tend to them later. We'll cure your lungs first. Mr. Pratt, fetch him along."

I got my fingers on the back of that consumptive's neck. He fought and hung back. Then I grabbed him by the waist-band with t'other hand. He moved then, "walking Spanish," like the boy in the schoolyard.

Eureka opened the door. "Nobody can say," says she, emphatic, "that I let my pa die of consumption without trying to cure him. Come along, Mr. Pratt."

"Remember, Mr. Sparrow," says Van, bustling with laugh, "it's all for your good."

We went out and across the yard and round back of the barn. The Twine come to the door to see us off. I could hear 'em laughing even after we was out of sight. Eureka shaded the lamp with her apron. When we got to the shed there was a brand-new padlock on the door of it.

"I put it on this afternoon," says she. "I'm pretty handy at fixing things up."

We went into the shed and she put the lamp on the floor in the corner. "I guess maybe Mr. Pratt'll stay till you get undressed, pa," she says. "You tell him the rest, Mr. Pratt. Good-night."

She went out and shut the door. The patient set down on the lounge and looked at the cracks in the walls. The wind off the bay was singing through 'em and there was a steady hallooming of sand coming with it. If fresh air was physic, Sparrow was certain to be a well man.

"Get undressed," says I. "Hurry up." "I'll freeze to death," says he, shivering.

"No you won't. Not in August. Maybe, later on, in December, it'll be different. But anyhow, freezing's a quick death, so they say, and I've heard you hankerin' to die quick ever since I know you. Get into bed."

He took off his coat and vest and camped out on the lounge. There was plenty of bed clothes. I took up the lamp. Then I looked at him.

"There's a one, or two, thins more," says I. "To-morrow morning you'll be for coming into the house. Well, you can't come. You'll stay outside, same as Eureka says you will. And the skiff and sloop are locked and chained, no you can't run away in them. And Scudder won't take you, nor any letters from you, 'cause he's in the game, too. And when Miss Page comes, if she does come, don't you dare tell her one word. If you do—well, you won't die of consumption, anyhow."

I pounded my knee with my fist when I said it. It's a pretty average fist, far's size is concerned, and I see him looking at it.

I said "Good-night" and went out and locked the door and took away the key. The fresh air cure had begun.

Next day was raw and chilly and the invalid put in the hours chasing what few patches of sunshine happened to come along. Eureka brought his meals out to him. He begged and pleaded to be let into the house, but 'twas no go. He spent that night in the toolhouse, same as he had the first.

For a week he stayed outdoor. Then he said he felt so much better that he guessed he could risk a day indoors. Eureka was ready for him.

"I'm glad your lungs feel better, pa," she says. "I thought they would. But, of course, you mustn't come in for months and months yet. I guess it's time to start in on the dyspepsy line."

She took a piece of paper out of her dress waist and unfolded it. "I sent a dollar to a doctor that advertised in the People's Magazine," she says, "and I got this. It's for dyspepsy, pa, and particular nervous dyspepsy. 'A careful diet and plenty of exercise,'" she read. "We'll begin on the dieting. In severe cases patient should take nothing but hot milk. We've got plenty of milk—such as 'tis. That's a comfort."

Her dad had been setting on the wash bench back of the kitchen. Now he jumped up off it like 'twas red hot. "Do you have the face to tell me," he screams, "that I can't have nothing to eat but milk? Why, that's—"

"Doctor's orders, pa," says Eureka. "I'm going by doctor's orders, and see what they've done for your lungs already."

"I can't live on milk! I ain't a baby. I hate the stuff! I don't believe no doctor'd ever—"

"Well, we'll call Dr. Penrose and see what he says. I'll bet he'll back me up."

Washy didn't take the bet. He knew what Dr. Penrose thought of him and his ailments.

"Aw, Reky, please—" he begs. "For your own good, pa," says his daughter. "I'll fetch you the hot milk."

She did—a quart of it. He drank it 'cause there wa'n't nothing else. For another week he lived on hot skim-milk and cold fresh air. He pleaded with the Heavens and me, but we hadn't any pity for him. He tackled Scudder, but Nito never pitted anybody unless there was money in it. He tried smuggling letters to Agnes, getting Lyeurgus to carry 'em; but Lye was in with his sister and the letters never got any further than Eureka's pocket.

'Twas fun for the rest of us, but a kind of nuisance in some ways. You see the sight of us eating three square meals a day was horrible tantalizing to a dyspeptic with an appetite like Washy's. He'd peek in through the dining room windows while we was at the table, and groan steady and loud till dessert time. Van said it reminded him of what he called a "tarble dot" at a Hungarian restaurant in New York. He said there was music at both places, but that, on the whole, Washy's music was the best of the two.

The Sunday of the week following was a mean day. A cold rain and considerable wind; more like October than August. The invalid set in the tool shed with the door opened and an umbrella keeping off the rain that leaked through the cracks in the roof. He looked as happy and snug as a locked-out cat in a thunder storm.

"Aw, Eureka," says he, when me and his daughter went out to the shed with the noon bucket of steaming milk. "Aw, Eureka," he says, "won't you let me have something hearty? Only a hunk of bread, say? I've drowned my insides with that thin milk till I feel like a churn. I can't keep on drinking the stuff. The mere sight of a cow would make me seasick."

But Eureka wouldn't give in. "It's all for your good, pa," she said. That was what Van told him every chance he got. I callate them words had come to be almost as sickening to him as the milk.

Next morning I got up early and come downstairs. 'Twas blowing hard and still raining. Eureka hadn't turned out yet. I opened the door of the kitchen and there I see a sight.

In the rocking chair by the kitchen stove was Washy Sparrow, sprawled out fast asleep. His feet was on the hearth of the stove, a place of pleasure was on the floor by his hand, his head was tipped back and his mouth wide open. And his face—oh, say! It was perfect peace and comfort.

Woman's Power Over Man

Woman's most glorious endowment is the power to awaken and hold the pure and honest love of a worthy man. When she loses it and still loves on, no one in the wide world can know the heart agony she endures. The woman who suffers from weakness and derangement of her special womanly organism soon loses the power to sway the heart of a man. Her general health suffers and she loses her good looks, her attractiveness, her amiability and her power and prestige as a woman. Dr. L. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., with the assistance of his staff of able physicians, has prescribed a successful remedy for women's ailments. It is known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is a positive specific for the weaknesses and disorders peculiar to women. It purifies, regulates, strengthens and heals. Medicine dealers sell it. No honest dealer will advise you to accept a substitute in order to make a little larger profit.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels.
